

BRIEFLETS.

Cold and coughs.
—Temple of Honor to-night.
—The Rifles took their new hats and plumes to Monroe to-day.
—Bishop Peck arranged this afternoon and is the guest of Presiding Elder W. P. Stowe.
—Mr. Cyrus Bliss of the Third ward, is very sick and is not expected to live but a few hours.
—The case of Garry, charged with larceny, has been adjourned again until Tuesday next.
—Hon. George W. Bemis, State Treasurer of Iowa, is in the city the guest of his cousin K. W. Bemis.
—To-night the reception of the Mutual Improvement Club will be given at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. Jenk L. Jones.
—Governor Smith arrived in this city this afternoon and is the guest of Mr. R. L. Colvin. He is to depart on the evening train.
—Wm. H. Bonesteel lost a finger-tip in the gearing of his mill the other day, and now carries his hand in a sling. The injury has given much pain, but is on the mend.
—In the town of Center yesterday afternoon a caucus was held at which Seth Fisher and Mark Honeysett were chosen delegates to the Assembly Convention and E. S. Parmelee and J. S. Conrad to the Superintendent's Convention.
—A special train consisting of an engine, baggage car, and four coaches left this morning for the Monroe Fair, taking thither the Bower City Band and the Janesville Rifles, besides a number of civilians bound for pleasure. The train bore off a happy crowd, who will return this evening.
—It is reported that Jacob Fowle, who formerly lived in Bradford, and who has of late been postmaster at Wilson, Ellisworth county, Kansas, has committed suicide while temporarily insane. This will be sad news to his many friends in this part of the State, by whom he was greatly esteemed. Mr. Fowle was a member of the Assembly in 1863, and occupied other positions of honor and trust during his residence in Bradford.
—Bishop Peck who is to preach at Court Street church this evening has gained a great reputation as an author as well as a speaker. Among the books which he has written and which have had many readers are "The Central Idea of Christianity," "The True Woman," "What I must do to be saved," and "History of the Great Republic." He has occupied leading pulpits in New York, San Francisco, Washington, Albany, and Syracuse. The university at the latter place was founded mainly through his efforts. His record is a grand one, and the rare treat of hearing him speak and seeing him face to face will cause the church to be crowded this evening. The service will commence at 7:30 o'clock.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.
Yesterday Mrs. Pember, of the Pember house, was happily reminded that it was her birthday by receiving an elegant silver pie-knife, accompanied by the following card:
"Presented to Mrs. R. T. Pember on her 53rd birthday by her girls.
MARY HALEY,
MATTIE O'MALLEY,
DELIA MULLINS,
SARAH DUNNELL,
KITTIE ECHOLS.
Pember House, September 18, 1879."
The gift was worthily bestowed, and is of far increased value as an indication of the kindly feeling which evidently exists between Mrs. Pember and those in her employ.

CHURCH DEDICATION.
The new Catholic church at Footville was dedicated yesterday. The building is on the old site, and part of the old church has been left standing, but the main part is entirely new, and has been erected at a cost of $2,000. The services yesterday morning were largely attended. Father Manich, of this city, dedicated the church. Father Fairbanks, of Whitewater, officiated at High Mass, and Father Willard, of Milwaukee, preached a very able sermon. Father Wrynn, of Dordrecht, the pastor of the church, and Father McGinty, of Monroe, were also present and took part in the services. The choir of St. Mary's church, Janesville, furnished the music, and sang Schmidt's mass in D. In the afternoon there was a picnic in which all joined. Father McGinty made a few remarks, there was singing and eating and a general good time. In the evening Father Willard lectured to a large audience.

FINE FURNITURE.
It would prove a big surprise to some in this city, to go through the furniture store of Britton & Kimball, and see the goods which are piled up there to say nothing of what is in the finishing room and factory. The quality of the goods too would prove somewhat of a surprise to those who have not been there lately. We took a look to-day at some of these goods. Besides being plenty in number some of them are decidedly rich, and much better than one would expect to find in stock in a city of this size. Some parlor and chamber sets are well worth going to see out of curiosity, and are surely worthy of inspection by any who think of purchasing. Not the least of the surprise is to learn the prices on these best goods. They are close, and the only way they can be accounted for is the fact that Britton & Kimball buy for cash strictly, and get every possible discount, and then turn about and give their customers the benefit. Besides these rich goods, they have a great variety of cheaper goods of all grades, and in the plain yet substantial styles that are in shape to suit everybody both as to quality and price. The firm have done business here for many years, but they never had as large and complete a stock as now. It is well worth one's while to step into their up-stairs show-room and look that part over as well as the first floor.

JOYFULLY JOINED.

The Marriage of Mr. Joseph C. Light and Miss Frankie W. Carter.
A very joyous matrimonial event occurred last evening at the residence of Hon. and Mrs. A. M. Carter, of Johnstown, it being the marriage of their daughter Miss Frankie W. Carter, to Mr. Joseph C. Light, of Calumet, Mich. The parlors were beautifully decorated with bouquets and floral ornamentations, relieved by bright green, and presented a very attractive appearance. By 8 o'clock, the hour fixed upon for the ceremony, about seventy-five guests had gathered, including relatives and friends from Johnstown, Janesville, Bradford, La Prairie and from Richmond, Walworth county, also Mrs. Rollin Richmond and Miss Daisy Richmond, of St. Louis, and Mrs. E. S. Carter and son, of Mendota, Ill. A large number of friends, living at such a distance as to render attendance in person almost impossible, sent their regrets, coupled with their well wishes and congratulations.
When the hour arrived for the ceremony the betrothed ones took their positions beneath an arch of green, studded with flowers, one base of the arch bearing the letter "L" and the other the letter "C," in pure white, while from the center hung a snowy ribbon a golden horseshoe, as an indication of the "good luck" that was theirs. The bride was dressed in drags of wine brocade silk, and wore modest floral ornamentations and no jewelry but diamonds. The groom appeared in the conventional black dress suit. Rev. Richard Miller, formerly pastor of the Congregational church at Emerald Grove, and later of Calumet, Michigan, officiated and by a very beautiful and impressive ceremony, in which the ring was used, joined the two for life as husband and wife, and in a happy manner congratulated them, and introduced them to their friends as Mr. and Mrs. Light. Warm handshakings and affectionate greetings followed, the well wishes and congratulations being not merely in form, but given with a heartiness which betokened a feeling which could not be counterfeited. After a pleasant season of social chatting, the tables were spread most bountifully, and the physical appetites of the guests more than satisfied. In all the arrangements there was a hearty hospitality and a pleasing ease of manner which made the occasion unusually enjoyable to all who participated. After the tables had been cleared, further social chatting was indulged in, interspersed with music, making the hours speed very lightly.
Among the gifts were the following: Silver fish knife, Frank Pember; silver cake knife and fruit knife, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cunningham; silver mounted thermometer, Mr. and Mrs. R. Beardsley; fruit set of Majolica ware, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Johnson; and Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Rockwell; perfume bottle in silver case, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Newhall; individual silver salt with pepper-box and napkin ring, Fred and Katie North; silver clock, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson; elegant Bible, Mr. and Mrs. N. Cole; Majolica dish, Miss Alice M. Haight; watch case, Fred Haight; toilet set, Miss Flora B. Wetmore; pillow shams, "sister Ellen;" table cloths, F. B. Cook; bed spread, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bostwick; book book, Fred and Percie Carter; pair rose blankets, "Father" Carter; pickle castor, John and Joanna McFarlane; set of napkins, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Smith; Long-fellow's poems, James Jack; set of napkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pickett; one dozen silver knives, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Carter; half-dozen handkerchiefs, M. C. Smith; pickle castor, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Haguna; elegant silver statue and cut-glass vase, J. C. Light; fruit brush, "Alice;" elegantly engraved silver table spoons, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wetmore and Mr. F. Wetmore; table cloth, "Mother;" Bohemian toilet set, Miss Lill Cunningham; silver butter dish, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Parker; one dozen silver teaspoons, "brother Charles;" pair of gold lined napkin rings, Will and El. Carter; elegant collodion brush and comb, "mother;" silver and gold card receiver, Ida E. Carter; silver bouquet holder, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Cheney; pair of napkin rings, Miss Ella M. Jackson; set of silver nutcrackers, Harry Carter; one dozen silver knives, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carter; gold lined silver cap, Mr. and Mrs. Will Stewart; silver pickle castor, Mr. and Mrs. Jessup; toilet set, Mrs. J. C. Wetmore; elegant silver jewel case, Mr. and Mrs. R. Miller; and Gracie Miller; porcelain and silver sugar bowl, Mr. and Mrs. V. Wood; cut glass pickle castor, Miss Cora Wood; Majolica water pitcher, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Keith; pair of Bohemian vases, with mottoes, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Falconer; handkerchief, "Jennie;" easel and card basket, scrollwork, Miss Emma J. Carter; glass water pitcher, Mrs. James Larkin; white silk tie, "Aunt" Maria Green.
Mr. and Mrs. Light will remain visiting friends in and about her home for nearly a week, when they will depart for their new home in Calumet, Mich., where Mr. Light is engaged in business, being connected with the great Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, and occupying a position there of prominence and trust. He is a worthy young man, and greatly esteemed by the many friends, who impatiently await the opportunity of giving him and his bride a hearty welcome. She who is now Mrs. Light will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends, as she has always been a favorite in social and musical circles, and most worthily so. All join most heartily in wishing the happy couple as bright and joyous a future as the happy opening of their married life gives promise.

YOUNG AMERICANS.

They Showed the Old Folk Yesterday How to Make a Fair Success.

Address by O. H. Fethers.

Yesterday the Young America Agricultural Society held its annual fair on the farm of Mr. Seth Fisher, in the town of Center. The day was auspicious, and at an early hour the teams came rolling in from far and near bringing with them many who desired to see what show the young folk could make. The display was a very creditable one indeed, there being 255 entries, embracing almost every variety of farm product. It was in fact a surprise to everybody, and the grounds presented an animated appearance which indicated the great interest which was felt in the success of the undertaking. Under the shelter of a tent were displayed many beautiful articles of needle-work, and domestic products, a collection of stuffed birds by Dr. Braden, of Footville, flowers and many other exhibits of interest. The display of cookery and canned fruits was excellent. One long table on the grounds presented a very fine showing of grapes, apples, etc., which looked tempting indeed. The display of vegetables and grain was in some respects wonderful. There were three very large squashes, the heaviest being that of P. S. Cauffman, its weight 118 pounds. Some large potatoes were also shown by John Grove. For size, some of these exhibits were remarkable, and the showing of quality was very fair. There was also a good showing of cattle, sheep, and horses.

Long dining tables bountifully spread and temptingly arranged by the ladies of the Mite Society were provided for the hungry ones, and everything needful for a pleasant time was in readiness. A drum corps served the music, and added to the life and stir. The fair was in all respects a success and all who attended it were loud in their praises of its enterprising management. The Society added about $100 to its treasury from gate receipts, besides furnishing an entertainment worthy of the cause.

In the afternoon the crowd gathered about the speaker's stand to listen to the address of Ogden H. Fethers, Esq., who was introduced very gracefully by the President of the Society, Master M. S. Fisher. The speaker was closely listened to and presented some practical truths, in a manner worthy of the occasion.

He said he should not attempt to tell them what he knew about farming, for that might amuse them too much. He might make some such mistake as Horace Greeley did when in reply to a letter from Missouri asking him whether that was a favorite State for raising broom-corn, he wrote that he thought the soil and climate of Missouri were well adapted to the raising of broom-corn, but advised them to raise the "plain-handled" kind, as that was much more durable than the striped-handled kind. He might get into some such mistake as this. He would rather give expression to congratulations on so many evidences of industry and thought as were here manifest. Here were products of farm life in all phases. There were a great variety of industries in this country, but they were all mutually dependent. All depended on production, and was primarily that of the farm. Agricultural in turn was dependent on all the others. An interchange of the various products is the foundation of prosperity. A great deal had said about hard times, and that over-production was the cause. This term "over-production" was used oftentimes without a clear understanding of its meaning. The factories of the East have been over producing, as they say, that is making more than they could sell, and unless these boys and girls, and the larger boys and girls raised enough from the soil to keep the manufactures going, by an exchange of farm products for their articles of merchandise, there must continue to be hard times with the manufacturers, resulting from which they call over production. It has also been said that there had been an over production of agriculture, and thus the strange spectacle was presented of groceries being too full, while people were at the same time starving. Factories over producing on the one hand, and on the other agricultural products too great, and yet some have tried to connect these two, and claim over-production all sides as the reason for hard times. He did not believe that there were enough farm products. According to the census of 1870 there were only between five and six million people engaged in the production of cereals, and the other thirty-two or three millions of people had to be fed from what these produced. This great mass of people were gathered in cities and villages, engaged in manufacturing and mercantile enterprises, and as a consequence when a panic came, these thirty-two millions were the ones that suffered most. If there could be an increase in the number of those who engaged in agriculture, then there would be fewer to starve. We never hear of a farmer starving. They can always produce enough to fight hunger successfully, and here was a key to the solution of hard times. During the last two years many of those who had been engaged in various manufacturing interests in the East had been crowding Westward, during these hard times, and had been engaging in the raising of farm products. There had been between three and four millions of these, who during the past two or three years had gone from the East into Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, and Colorado, and had engaged in farming. Thus the population of the seaboard had been relieved and so many more people had put themselves in condition to house, clothe and feed themselves. Emigration to the West and engaging in agriculture had been felt as a relief, and this was one of the reasons why factories, which had long been closed were now running full force, day and night. On asking these Eastern manufacturers why it is that they are thus pushing their factories, they reply that it is because so much has been raised in the country this year, and that they are depending upon what the West will produce.

Six years ago this very month, on the 20th of September, in New York, hard times began. Jay Gould & Co., was the first brick in the wall which was disturbed, and as one after another fell there was a raining crash which caused the people to stand aghast. Factories closed. There was no proper adjustment of values. Nothing was stable, not even currency. Every thing was at beams ends. Real estate went down, and panic prevailed. At the end of the first year they said it cannot become any worse, but the second year made even the end of the first year seem a season of prosperity in comparison. In '77 and '78 it seemed to reach the full tide, but there had been a change for the better. Resumption was no longer a speculation but a fixed fact, and there was once more an adjustment of values. Anyone having anything to sell now had a standard by which to sell it. In reaching resumption the country had passed through as trying an ordeal as could ever be found in its history except in times of war. It was prophesied that we could not get through but the time came, and on the 1st of January 1879, and it was found that Government could pay dollar for dollar. All can now see a change for the better. The clouds are breaking away, and the end is not yet. Some laws may need changing, and some improvements, but we are progressing much faster than we had a right to expect. Emigration and resumption are two chief ingredients in this return of prosperity. This prosperity is not only coming, but come and the United States enters upon an era of prosperity such as was never known before. It is just to compare prices now with prices before the war. We find that prices of farm products, stock, etc., are as good or better than then, and we were at that time in a season of prosperity, and we should measure now by then.

When thirty or forty young people band together for the purpose shown here, it was not only a cause of congratulation but there was reason for encouraging them to not only show the best products of the farm, but also to learn to love and respect the life of a farmer. A Boston merchant recently advertised for a book-keeper, and within three days received 450 answers, and three-fourths of them were young men in the country, who evidently wanted to shift to a city life. The young men should learn that city life is not always successful. The proportion of men in the cities who earn more than a living is less than those on farms. In the country a greater number are blessed with prosperity. Fairs of this kind should be encouraged, and the grandeur and beauty of agriculture should be urged upon them. In home life there was much influence to be wielded, too. Those on the farm to-day have much to bless them which others before did not have. It was far different twenty-five years ago. Books, music, and decorations are now found even in the remotest fastnesses of farm life, introducing the poetic element, which in truth springs from nature.

All things were working for the assistance of those here gathered, giving an impulsive force. These young men and women were making history, and the opportunity was given them for making it a grand history. Times come when one feels like giving up, but the grip must be tightened, and it once lost should be retaken. At the battle of Shiloh a German officer rode up to General Grant and told him his battery was taken. The General said, "Of course, you spiked the guns." "Spiked the guns? No, indeed. What, spike those new guns? Dot would spoil them." The General rather indignant, exclaimed, "Well, what did you do then?" "Well, you just went right in and took them back again—that's what we did." So if the grip is lost, get it back, and hang to it till success comes.

The speaker closed with thanking his hearers and complimenting them on the success of their undertaking. Three cheers and a tiger were given for him with a zest which showed that his speech had been heartily appreciated.

Captain S. J. M. Putnam was then called for and made a few well chosen remarks, placing still further emphasis upon the fact that city life was not as enviable as it appeared to many of the young men who seemed so anxious to get a taste of it in exchange for farm life. He was heartily applauded, after which the crowd scattered, and passed the remaining time viewing exhibits, and strolling over the ground, until the hour for departing for home came.

MISTAKE.

In your notice of the picnic given near the Blind Institution, you gave me the credit of furnishing the refreshments, which is a mistake, as the good things were mostly furnished by the operatives, and the owners of the mill were invited guests. The occasion was an enjoyable one.

to make money safely, easily and rapidly, is now, while the stock market offers so many splendid opportunities. The combination system has had unprecedented success, and brings good fortune to thousands of shareholders in this and other countries. Investments of $25 to $10,000 are thus consolidated into one vast capital, and operated by the best skill and experience, result in heavy profits which are divided among shareholders every month. A New Orleans cotton dealer made $27,649.18 in two months. A Baltimore merchant received an aggregate profit of $9,642.04 from three combinations. A San Francisco mining agent made $22,438.16 from four combinations, his first investment being $100. Others have been equally fortunate. Every day there are new and grand opportunities. From a Well-Known Writer.

From Mrs. Mary Francis, well known as "Margaret Blount."

Brighton, Woodstock, Vt., Oct. 6th, 1876.
Sd W. Fowle, Esq.:
Gentlemen—Two years ago I began to take the PERUVIAN SYRUP. I was in a languid, half-alive state, through incipient dyspepsia and defective circulation of the blood. Three bottles of the PERUVIAN SYRUP changed this gloomy, bounding health. I have a fine appetite, sleep soundly, and can walk five miles easily, without resting, or busy myself out of doors all day long without fatigue.

A lady cousin who resides with me, took the Syrup during her recovery from a serious illness of some weeks. She has been an invalid for years. Five bottles of the Syrup has so built up her system that she now eats quite heartily, sleeps well, and can walk three miles (in fine weather) without fatigue. I consider the medicine so invaluable to persons of sedentary pursuits, or to those who suffer from languor or low spirits, that I relate this personal experience of its effects to you, leaving you to make what use you please of my letter.

Yours, very respectfully,

MARY FRANCIS.

Dr. Swayne & Son—Gents: I have been suffering for ten years with Asthma, Bronchitis and an affection of the stomach, causing me to expectorate a great deal of thick phlegm; have tried various medicines and treatments, but never could get relief until I tried your "Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry." It loosens the phlegm which choked me, and induces sleep, and can feel myself improving in health and growing stronger as I persevere in its use. This is entirely voluntary from me, and you can make use of it, if you see proper, for the benefit of sufferers as well as yourselves. ROBERT T. KEYS, residence, 141 Park Avenue, Baltimore, April 12, 1879.

No other known remedy possesses the great virtue of Dr. Swayne's Syrup in effectively curing all troubles of the air passages and lungs. Equally valuable in Bronchitis and Asthmatic affections. The first dose gives relief, and it is sure to cure the worst cough, all throat, breast and lung diseases. Price 25 cents and $1, or six bottles for $5. The large size is the most economical. Prepared only by Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Sold by all prominent druggists.
